Now With F.M.L.

Things have returned to normal at Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Elgin . . . Sam is back in the congregation, according to a Sunday feature in the Austin American-Statesman.

Sam isn't exactly a lamb who strayed from the fold: he's more of a dog who went AWOL. But, thanks to a man of the cloth and an ad in The Cameron Herald, Sam was returned to his own backyard--and church.

What really led Sam astray was his devotion to football. When Elgin played Cameron last fall, Sam was there as a guest of Father Everett Trebtoske, priest of Sacred Heart.

The Cameron fans left the field--and so did Sam.

Sam's owners, Syd and Nell Davis drove through Cameron's streets, hoping to catch a glimpse of Sam's dust-colored fur, but they had no luck.

When Sam had missed about four Sundays, Father Trebtoske joined the search. He put an ad in The Cameron Herald on a hunch that Sam had attached himself to a family there. His ad was answered--and Sam retrieved.

And that's how Sam, a native of the Austin pound, came to resume his customary presence at Sacred Heart.

When the weather gets hot, you might find Sam sleeping peacefully in front of the altar during services. He doesn't get in the way much, says the priest, and if he does, people just step around him.

One might wonder whether the Davises, who are Baptist, mind very much that Sam is a convert to Catholicism. They say they've accepted his choice. "Sam's a Catholic," says Mrs. Davis, "and he's a good one, too. He goes when the bell rings for Mass in the morning and he stays all day long."

He also attends all church functions, Mrs. Davis said. Sam declined to confirm or deny, however, whether he indulges in bingo.

The Davises are rightfully proud of Sam, but they really aren't stunned that he has gotten religion. After all, they once had Corky, a dog who liked to march with the Elgin High School band.

THE NILEY J. SMITHS are shown in front of their Cameron home. Smith, a 1908 graduate of Texas A&M, is heading the school's centennial year Muster to be held in Cameron April 21.

1908 Grad Heads Texas A&M Muster

A 1908 Texas Aggie graduate, Niley J. Smith Sr., will be chairman of the 1976 Muster of Texas A&M University exes to be held Wednesday, April 21 at 7:30 p.m. in the Methodist Fellowship Hall in Cameron.

Smith, whose Aggie spirit is shown by the fact that he has never missed an Aggie Muster since their beginning in 1903, is a Milam County native and is active in a number of organizations.

He is a Mason, member of Eastern Star and Cameron Rotary Club. He was active in he old Cameron Commercial Club and was named a Citizens National Bank director in 1936, a position which he still holds. He is a Methodist and has been on the church board for 50 years.

He received a Bachelor of Science degree in Agriculture from A&M. While attending college, he served as second lieutenant of Company D of the corps, and was a member of the school's livestock judging team.

The Sul Ross Society, which is composed of ex-students who graduated from Texas A&M 50 years or more ago, recognizes Smith as highest in seniority in the Club. Smith is also a member of the Silver Century Club at A&M.

As chairman of the Aggie Muster, Smith will preside at the Muster meeting and will head the A&M Club in Milam County for the 1976-77 year.

Tickets for the Muster are available from Stanley Glaser of Buckholts, Monroe Fuchs of Cameron, Bill Crenan of Burlington, Shelby Smith of Milano, Raymond Pond of Rockdale, or Newton Butts of Thorndale.

In addition to being the bicentennial year for the nation, this is the centennial year for Texas A&M and all former students are encouraged to attend this year's Muster ceremony.

Cars Collide Near Milano

An 83-year-old driver was treated at a Rockdale hospital Wednesday following a traffic mishap east of the vaiduct in Milano on Highway 36. He was Henry Anthis of Milano.

The Anthis car was in collision with a car driven by Lawrence Nichols of Corpus Christ, who was not hurt.

DPS Trooper Don Wardlaw investigated the accident and reported heavy vehicle damage.

Two Jailed After Shooting

As a result of a shooting scrape at 5:45 Wednesday at 808 S. Burleson Jessie Clinton of 905 S. Nolan was charged in county court with carrying a prohibited weapon and a charge of simple assault was lodged against Damon Corona of 808 S. Burleson.

The charges grew out of a shooting incident at the Corona residence when Clinton was struck by several pellets from a shotgun blast. According to police. Corona reportedly shot Clinton following an argument over a debt.

Corona was fined $32.50 in Justice of the Peace Jess Brock's court on Thursday. Both men were put in the county jail Wednesday night, with Clinton receiving treatment at a local hospital.

Shell Meetings For Leaders, Public

Shell Oil Co. officials from Houston will be meeting with county and city leaders Monday and with the public Tuesday to present information on their lignite mining venture in Milam County.

The officials will meet with county commissioners at 1:30 p.m. Monday and with the city council at 3 p.m. Monday. On Tuesday, the public is invited to attend the presentation at 9:30 a.m. at the Methodist Fellowship Hall in Cameron.

State Museum Expert Approves Plans For Converting Old Jail

A state museum consultant told county commissioners and a group of county historical committee members Thursday that other small museums are successfully housed in former county jails and the old Milam County Jail will make a suitable place for a county museum.

Mrs. Cindy Sherrell of the Texas Historical Commission outlined some of the problems to be solved and steps to be followed in organizing a county museum.

She said the scope and purpose of the museum should be defined, with decision on what story the museum is to tell. Then acceptance or rejection of items for the museum can be measured by the purpose.

She suggested having special displays about every two months to retain interest and build attendance. Special displays of borrowed items can also be featured.

She said the project would call for hard work and lots of cooperation from committee members and the public for the museum to be a success.

Funds will be needed to restore the jail building, which has bad leaks in the roof and walls, and for insurance. A salaried employe could be retained to stay in the building during viewing hours.

First, said Mrs. Sherrell, comes the drawing up of a constitution and by-laws for obtaining a charter. The committee will meet April 29 for this purpose.

Several civic clubs in Cameron have already started raising funds for the museum, and several items are being stored awaiting display.

Mrs. Sherrell said display cases can be constructed locally and this will save a lot of money.

She said if the old jail is placed on the National Register, federal grants and aid are available.

Following the meeting Mrs. Sherrell, committee members and commissioners toured the jail building. The consultant said the first floor has sufficient space to house displays and the other two floors can be used for storage and work space.

Committee chairman Mary Belle Batte and members agreed that work should start soon if the museum is to open in 1976 as part of the nation's Bicentennial.

Business People Attend Crime Seminar

Over 40 business people attended a one-night seminar on shoplifting and bad checks held Wednesday at the community center.

Sponsored by the Cameron Police Department, the program was presented by DPS Officer Floyd Tippit, Robertson County special investigator Cecil Wingo, and Milam County Atty. Charles Smith.

Patrol's March Report

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 20 accidents in Milam County during March, with no deaths and seven injured. This makes a total of 61 accidents with two deaths for the year.

County To Halt Tax Discount For Early Payment

Commissioners are considering the halt of the discount on early payment of county taxes and will decide officially at the May meeting.

At Thursday's court session, commissioners agreed that the county can no longer grant discounts because of rising costs in county budgeting. It was noted that the billing machine at the tax office will have to be adjusted for the new rates.

In other business, Judge O. B. Harden said he has asked for an opinion from the state attorney general on a question that came up on the $3,000 homestead exemption for residents 65 and over.

Harden said the question asks what to do if the wife is 65 and the husband younger. Commissioners believe that as long as one of the couple is 65, the exemption should stand.

Harden said Valter White, county tax-assessor-collector, is preparing a report on how much disability and homestead tax exemptions will cost the county.

Commissioners also agreed that they will have to draw up their own plans for a storage and laundry room for the new jail.

Commissioners court was then joined by Mrs. Cindy Sherrell, state museum consultant, and members of the county Historical Survey Committee, to discuss the proposed county museum. (See separate story, this page.)

Army Makes Stronger Case

GATESVILLE

The Army, making what Cong. W. R. Poage of Waco considers the "strongest case to date" for its attempted acquisition of 59,300 acres of Coryell County land, has sent a new three-volume justification study to Congress for its proposed expansion of the Fort Hood reservation.

Hail Damage Extensive

BURNET

Disaster and damage estimates far exceed the original $2.5 million reported only hours following last Wednesday's devastating hailstorm wherein ice ranging in the size from baseballs down to marbles rained over the entire city of Burnet for a 30-minute period. Some estimates by insurance companies run as high as $5 million.

Police Chief Resigns

ROCKDALE

Rockdale Police Chief Truman White resigned his office last Wednesday, stating that he felt working under a city council divided over his police administration would be unfair to the department. White served as chief for 4 years. He made headlines in 1974 when he challenged what he felt was a lack of case disposition and prosecution in Milam County.

Herbicide Damages Tomatoes

ROSEBUD

A report from the State Department of Agriculture last week stated that in the areas east of Rosebud, from Cedar Springs to Wilderville, herbicides have damaged young tomato plants. Tomato producer Herbert Roberts said that a specialist has estimated that damages to tomato plants runs as high as 80 percent overall.

County Seeks Probation Funds

GEORGETOWN

Williamson County commissioners unanimously passed a motion to start a county juvenile probation program--maybe. The motion included the stipulation that first-year funding be obtained through the Criminal Justice Council before the program is begun. A $14,000 grant is being sought.

Motorcyclist Bounces

CALDWELL

The second serious motorcycle accident in two weeks occurred in Burleson County on Saturday. A motorcycle struck a rockbed and the rider was thrown to the pavement with his helmet flying off. He then bounced and struck the pavement a second time. James Siegert of Bryan was taken to St. Jude Hospital and was treated for extensive cuts and abrasions and severe facial injuries.

Home TV Set Is Tornado Radar

Although the human eye is still the best method for locating tornadoes, most homes are equipped with a built-in tornado radar: the home television set.

If properly tuned, it is believed that a television set will detect a twister within a 15-20 mile radius.

Known as the Weller Method, the phenomenon is named for the Iowa scientist (Newton Weller) who first perfected the procedure.

The method is not foolproof and therefore should not be the sole source of information during bad weather. The National Weather Service recommends that anyone who lives in an area for which a "tornado watch" or "tornado warning" has been issued should keep an ear on up-to-date weather bulletins broadcast over local radio and television stations.

Weather bulletins are based on information from both radar and the phalanx of trained spotters deployed around a community whenever dangerous weather threatens.

As a supplement to this kind of protection, anyone can apply the Weller Method by following a few simple instructions:

First, warm up your television set as if you were going to watch it. The contrast control should be tuned to the maximum position.

Turn to Channel 13 and adjust the brightness control until the screen is just on the threshold of black. Then turn to Channel 2 without making any new adjustments to the picture settings. The audio (sound) settings may be adjusted as desired. If Channel 2 is not an operating channel in your area, be sure to have a radio or second television tuned in for weather reports.

Monitor the screen as continuously as possible. Lightning will appear on the screen as horizontal flashes or streaks. On a color set the streaks will be in color.

A tornado within a 15-20 mile radius will cause the screen to glow brightly or cause the darkened picture to become visible and remain continuously visible.

Should this happen, it is important to take immediate safety precautions. Turn your television set off and open windows a crack to reduce the potential damage from pressure if a tornado passes nearby.

Take cover in a safe place, preferably near the center on the bottom floor of the building. A closet or small, windowless room offers best protection.

If you have a transistor radio, take it with you to the shelter area and continue to monitor weather broadcasts.

During particularly bad storms, when the electric power is off, the transistor radio can be used to augment, the television warning system. To do this, set the radio alongside the TV and turn the radio knob to the lowest end of the dial (about 550 kilocycles).

At this setting the radio will pick up storm signals, emitting intermittent static when lightning is near and continuous static when a tornado is moving toward the signal.

Advance warning, from whatever source, is of no use if it is ignored. Anytime a tornado watch is issued persons living in the watch area should take precautions to protect their lives and property.

Loose items in the yard should be tied down during severe weather to prevent wind damage. Cars should be moved inside the garage, if possible, to prevent damage from hail or wind-blown projectiles.

Let's Get Ready....

We encourage the public and private interests both to attend the "town meeting" scheduled 9:30 a.m. Tuesday by Shell Oil Co.

Now is the time to get questions out about economic, social, and environmental implications of the obviously growing lignite plans for the major oil company.

Though several years away, it is becoming apparent this development will create hundreds of new jobs at that time and implications for need for housing, various services and facilities related to new employment are abundant.

This is another of the new dimensions of Milam County, not in the size of Alcoa's impact 25 years ago, but certainly suggesting major development not just for the lignite areas, but for the communities nearby.

Cameron is county seat and nearby to leasing areas of this company.

Let's get our questions out and over. Let's see what turns this development promises for Milam County. And then let's get ready for it.

For History Minded...

The old Milam Jail has been found suitable for rennovating as a county museum, not only by local historians, but also by a state museum consultant who toured the facility the other day.

This museum will require funding for the cleanup and renovation inside which will make room for the various artifacts and materials which a museum should house.

This county historical committee is taking on a major project, but one which will provide a viewing place for the history of perhaps 35 to 40 Texas counties which derived from the original Milam Land Institute.

A lot of ways are available to raise the funds. It is a matter of establishing the budget, the personnel, the scope of collections and a committee historical expert who can pass judgment on what should go and what should stay.

This is indeed an asset to a history-minded area developing into one of the finest small cities in Texas

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

"MOONLIGHTING" RAIDS SOCIAL SECURITY FUND

Rep. James A. Burke Mass.) ". . .NewYork City's announcement this week that it is considering terminiating social security coverage for its employees is one which should be viewed with the greatest concern.

"As chairman of the House Social Security Subcommittee I intend to hold hearings on this development beginning April 26. . .

"I insert an article which appeared in the Boston Globe . . .By David D. Wilson. . . (which) outlines why we have good cause for concern over what appears to be a growing trend on the part of city, county, and local government." (Condensed article follows):

Social Security: Glaring Inequality

(By David D. Wilson)

The Washington Post reports that 138 city, county, and local government agencies have dropped out of the Social Security system in the last two years and another 207 have signified theirintention to do so.

Public employees have the option of dropping out, replacing Social Security with private retirement plans. So do employees of private, non-profit corporations.

This alternative is not available to the overhwelming proportion of private sector workers now required to pay Social Security taxes, matched, dollar for dollar by employer contributions.

But perhaps the most shocking implication is that early retirees under public sector public retirement plans would be free to take sufficient private sector employment to qualify them for Social Security upon retirement at 62 or 65, thereby enriching hemselves at the expense of the people who have spent their working lives entirely in the system.

A not unreasonable and certainly equitable approach to rectifying these injustices would be to oblige all workers, without exception, to participate in a Social Security System.

Instead, public employees are dropping out, many with the intention of reinstatment or qualification by "moonlight." If the trend continues, the consequences for the system could be disastrous.

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

The Social Securit y Act provides that two years notice of proposed termination must be given. Once the termination is effective, it is irrevocable. Thus the need for prompt hearings.

Of Presidents...

The Evolution Of Power

By Doris H. Kearns

Editor's Note: This is the 15th in a series of 18 articles written for the nation's Bicentennial and exploring themes of the American Issues Forum. In this article Doris Kearns argues that Americans regard their President as both democrat and king--an attitude that has its roots in the colonial experience and has led to conflicts over the extent of legitimate presidential power. Prof. Kearns teaches government at Harvard University and was a research assistant to President Johnson.

George Washington wanted to be called "His Mightiness." John Adams preferred "His Highness." Thomas Jefferson, objecting to the implication and aristocracy suggested simply "Mr. President." Public officials in a democractic republic, Jefferson reasoned, were public servants and should be treated as such with a minimum of pomp and ceremony. The Federalists countered with the ideal of a remote regal dignitary shielded by protocol. "What will soldiers and sailors say," John Adams asked, "when they hear George Washington is called President. They will despise him. The President is undignified. Why there are Presidents of fire companies and clubs!"

Jefferson prevailed on the question of titles, but the larger controversy about the hybrid nature of the American President--half democrat, half king--continues to this day. If most Americans do not feel compelled to hang a picture of Gerald Ford in their living rooms (unlike our ancestors who considered it a duty to display a likeness of George Washington in their homes), we still defer to our chief executives if we do not deify them.

The deference takes both symbolic and practical forms. The modern White House has become a colossal warehouse, open twenty-four hours a day to accommodate the President's every need. Every schoolchild is taught the President's name. The President's actions dominate the front pages of the press. His speécnes preempt the most popular television programs. His private thoughts as well as his private ailments are public concerns. And there is no question of the power of the Presidency to evoke strong emotional responses in the American people. Studies of popular reaction to the deaths of Warren Harding, Franklin D. Roosevelt, and John F. Kennedy liken the public grief and even physical suffering (insomnia, depression, rashes, high blood pressure) to the emotions and pain experience after the death of a close friend or relative.

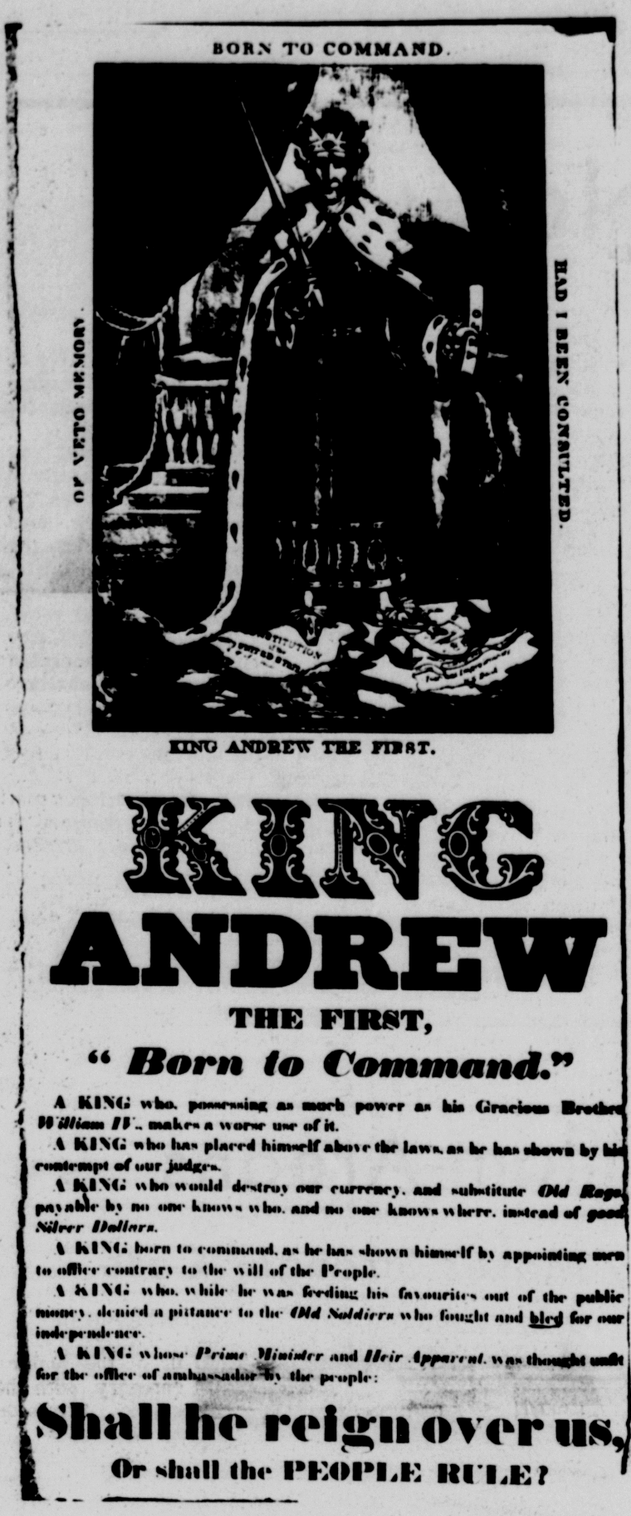
DOUBLE VISION

In keeping with the national habit of ridiculing what they most deeply respect, Americans often simultaneously revere and deride the image of their presidents. Richard Nixon was openly referred to as Tricky Dick; L. B. J. was satirically cast as MacBird in a scurrilous play; and Gerald Ford's football career has been the subject of rude remarks. Nor is the President's physical presence immune to malicious gossip and the venom of cartoonists: George Washington's false teeth is a bit of familiar historical lore; William Taft's obesity and Lyndon Johnson's hanging ears are immortalized in cartoons.

To understand this duality, we must return to the Founding Fathers, for it was their mingled fear of and desire for centralized power that shaped the institution of the Presidency and insured the persistence of our double vision.

The Revolution had been fought to protect individual liberties from the willful authority of kings and governors. These liberties included protecting religious freedom from royal edicts, defending personal goods and possessions from arbitrary taxes, and maintaining the privilege of not serving in wars fought solely to advance the interests of the Crown. Powerful sentiment against royal authority before the Revolution accounts for the enfeebled executive provided by the Articles of Confederation. Hamstrung at every turn by a series of institutional checks, he was an executive who could execute nothing.

The impotence of the Articles became the theme harped upon in the 1780s by those who sought a stronger national government. They pictured a society in chaos, with debtors in revolt against creditors, squatters illegally occupying land, the state laws a welter of confusion. In place of this hodgepodge, the Framers of the Constitution proposed an energetic government capable of penetrating the remotest parts of the continent. Without this type of central authority, the Framers were convinced, the United States would sacrifice its potential glory as a nation to an excessive and irrational fear of executive power.



BORN TO COMMAND.
HAD I BEEN CONSULTED.
KING ANDREW THE FIRST.
KING ANDREW
THE FIRST,
"Born to Command."
A KING who, possessing as much power as his Gracious Brother William IV., makes a worse use of it.
A KING who has placed himself above the laws, as he has shown by his contempt of our judges.
A KING who would destroy our currency, and substitute Old Rags, payable by no one knows who, and no one knows where, instead of good Silver Dollars.
A KING born to command, as he has shown himself by appointing men to office contrary to the will of the People.
A KING who, while he was feeding his favourites out of the public money, denied a pittance to the Old Soldiers who fought and bled for our independence.
A KING whose Prime Minister and Heir Apparent, was thought unfit for the office of ambassador by the people:
Shall he reign over us,
Or shall the PEOPLE RULE?

CREDIT: Courtesy of the New York Historical Society, New York City. Broadside of President Andrew Jackson. The problem of presidential power is not unique to the 20th century.

In defining the powers of the President, the Framers were responding both to the experience of the colonial Revolution and to its aftermath. His duties were specified, his authority limited. Selected by an electoral college (not the legislature), he was given the power as Commander-in-Chief and Chief of State to make treaties, nominate ambassadors, choose Supreme Court justices, keep Congressmen informed on the state of the Union, recommend measures he judged necessary and expedient, and assure the faithful execution of the laws. But these powers had to be shared with other branches. He could make reaties and nominate ambassadors, but only if Congress approved. In short, he was to be neither democrat nor king alone but a little of both.

WAR POWERS

Early drafts of the Constitution granted the legislature sole power to make war. In later drafts, the wording was loosened to allow for the practical necessity of executive action should the nation be attacked while Congress was out of session --as it was expected to be for all but one month a year. In an age when the fastest horse took fifteen days to ride to the Capitol from the northernmost state of Massachusetts and twelve days from the southernmost state of Georgia, the sitting executive provided the only promise of immediate response.

Theoretically, the executive's power to respond to attacks was not equated with the power to initiate them. But history has a way of fudging distinctions. If, as it often happened, the American government created situations that provoked the hostility to which the President then responded, where was the line between initiation and response?

As the territory of the nation extended, American Presidents stretched the concept of defensive action. "To protect America from attack" required the protection of American citizens abroad. In the early 20th century Presidents Theodore Roosevelt and William H. Taft sent troops into Cuba and the Dominican Republic to protect American residents living there. In 1914 and again in 1916, Wilson sent troops into Mexico to enforce American policy interests in hat country. To protect the entire free world against the danger of Communists, Truman dispatched troops into South Korea in 1950 to repulse North Korean aggression. In none of these incidents was Congress asked to approve these actions in advance. It was the President, with his access to special information, who decided. Such unilateral decisions by the President in matters of war and peace have given that office a degree of unrestrained power objectionable to the Founding Fathers--and to many Americans today.

LEFT TO RIGHT: Mrs. Clyde Wallace, Mrs. James Brock, and Henry Ivey. Under the Farmer's Home Administration's Loan Program, 26 new homes have been built in 1975. We are fortunate in Cameron to have Mr. Henry Ivey andhis staff located in our city. They have made a positive contribution to the housing shortage in our City. This Agency has independent contractors building homes in Cameron and throughout the area. The development of rural water systems by this agency has done more to up-grade our communities and better living conditions of our citizens than any other. We have found this agency to be most cooperative in working with us in our program.

Youth Explosion

The Urban Renewal Program cleared the area South of Tyson Street (approximately two blocks), installed storm drainage, streets, curbs & filled area. This area was dedicated to the City of Cameron as a Youth Exposition Area and for other public reuse such as a Farmer's Market, Commercial Parking, and 1st Monday Sale. A Committee is making plans to develop the Area and hope to have building plans to submit to the Steering Committee in the very near future. We have representatives from the Junior Livestock Commission, Folk Fete, Future Farmers of America, Future Homemakers of America, County Agent's Office, Planning Commission, Community Development Agency, and the City Council. It is our hope that there will be a new facility in this area in the very near future.

LETTER TO THE MAYOR

TO: Honorable Gene F. Blake
City Council
Cameron, Texas

Dear Mayor Blake & Council:

Cooperation has been the key to success in Cameron's Urban Renewal Program and continues in Cameron's Community Development Program. Cooperation from our Mayor and City Officials, and cooperation from our Citizens. Without cooperation, it would be impossible to get the job done. On behalf of the Community Development Board of Directors and the Staff, we want to say, "thank you, Mayor Blake and the City Council."

Cameron 75

We are proud of the accomplishments Mayor Blake and the City Council have made for the year. We are all prone to critize our officials , but seldom say thank you to those who give so much. You should know: the bookeeping department has been up-dated and completely modernized; all salaries and positions have been up-graded; Oak Hill Cemetery has been in a program for up-grading; accepted a street program prepared by the Planning Commission; started a curb and gutter program in the Green Addition as well as in other areas of the City; completely upgraded the Sanitation Department, purchasing two new power-pack trucks for pick ups; re-organized the Fire Department, up-grading the personnel and equipment; worked out a program with Texas Highway Department for Highways 77 and 36 South and entered an Urban Highway Program whereby certain streets will be up-graded by the Texas Highway Department; co-operated in building four tennis courts in City Park; up-graded City Park and Ledbetter Park; and contracted for engineering of complete street paving program and drainage in the Green Addition with the drainage program scheduled to start in April. Mr. Alvin Heft, Superintendent of the Water & Sewer Departments, and his crew have been engaged in laying new sewer extension North on Highway 77, serving an area not served before and laying new and larger water lines on Fannin before construction on this Street by the Highway Department. One inch water lines have been replaced with two inch lines in much of the Green Addition. This Department does a commendable job with a very small crew.

Code enforcement and inspection, under the supervision of Mr. E. A. Bigbee, continues to move to help correct many problems. Mr. Bigbee has made many inspections and issued twenty-nine new building permits, seventeen plumbing permits, and seven electrical permits. Miss Ema Jean McClaren, who works in Mr. Bigbee's office, does an outstanding job in compiling breakdowns of inspections and permits for reports. The reports reflect $716,985 for new residences, $154,690--new commercial, $127,732--repairs to residences, and $40,900 repairs to commercial. There were also permits issued for moving, $40; Demolition, $8; and public bldgs, $21,721. Code enforcement is a very thorny problem as all want the codes and ordinances enforced, except when they affect me and mine.

Thank you, Mayor Blake, members of the City Council, Department Heads, and Secretary J. P. Fuller.

Projects Committee

The Project s Committee composed of some ten members who meet regularly on a monthly basis to help plan our Programs and work as Liaison between the Board, the Agency, and the Citizens of the Community. This Committee is rendering outstanding service to our over all Program and our Community.

Code Enforcement

The Community Development has cleared some forty-nine delapidated houses this year under the dirention of A.E. Matula. Work is performed by the City under contract to the Agency. The Agency will pay the City for labor and equipment used in this program. The program is designed to remove blight, improve the environment and make building lots available for new housing.

Cameron Community Center

The Cameron Community Center , under the direction of Mrs. John Mosely, is partially supported by the City of Cameron and is now in its sixth year of operation. The Center is goverend by the Board of Directors of the Cameron Housing Authority. The total rents collected for 1975 were $1,287.75 with Federal groups and Community Groups such a s 4-H, Scouts, or Sr. Citizens using the facilities free. There are always numerous activities in progress at the Center and it takes a great deal of organization to keep it running smoothly. The people of Cameron are privileged to have such a facility at their disposal.

Community Board

It has been a pleasure to work with so dedicated a Board through the years. Our Board has been outstanding as they have planned, made decisions, and given leadership in building our City. It has been a labor of love and an unselfish service to the Community.

Volunteer Fire Department

The Volunteer Fire Department has been reorganized by the City and Mr. Felix Matula, Chief, is doing a most commendable job. The Volunteer Fire Department now has thirty-three members who give unselfishly of their time and are the unsung servants of our City. The Department has one paid member, Driver Mr. Burgesess. A thank you would be in order from the Community.

Planning Commission

Thirty men and women serve on the Planning Commission representing all ethnic groups in all areas of our City. The Planning Commission meets each second Monday at 5:30 p..m at the Chamber of Commerce office and is open to all Citizens. We invite your suggestions as we plan for Cameron's future.

Four New Tennis Courts

The tennis courts were built under the leadership of the Town & Country Tennis Association and with the cooperation of the Noon Lions Club, the Evening Lions Club, the Cameron Rotary Club, the Knights of Columbus, many individuals, and with a $5,000 gift from the Alcoa Foundation. The Project was underwritten by the City with work being done under the supervision of the Community Development Agency. A special thanks goes to Mr. Wayne Mann and personnel of the Soil Conservation Service who provided grades, elevations, and lay-out of the Court Area. Mr. Charles Kunz, Chairman of Planning Commission Park Committee has done Yoeman service. Cooperation makes things happen.

Ledbetter Park

The Lake at Ledbetter Park has been drained, dredged of some 10,000 yards of silt and the dam rebuilt. All trees have been trimmed, a nature area has been built by the Boy Scouts, and the area between park road and the Farm-to-Market Road has been Cleared. Mr. Joe Glaser of Buckholts did the dirt work on the lake and dam and when completed, stocked the lake for the City. Mr. Wayne Mann and personneel of the Soil Conservation Service provided grades and lay-out on the dam and lake improvements. The Project was financed by a $4,000 contribution from the Noon Lions Club, which was matched by the City. Mr. Walter Wallace, Superintendent of Public Works, and his City crew did outstanding work in clearing the area.

Park On West 12th

The Citizens of West Cameron are re-vitalizing the Park on 12 Street by installing a new 6-foot Cyclone Fence and leveling the area. They plan to install concrete tables and benches in the near future. This is under the Cameron Civic Improvement Committee. Mrs. Odessa Poole, president of the group, reported $2,500 plus has been raised by contributions, and they continue to receive gifts from the renovation of the Park. This will provide a much needed facility for Citizens of the Area.

Our Girl Friday

Mrs. Young is Our Girl Friday, secretary, bookeeper, assists in title searches on property, and you name it, she does it. We are happy to have Regena conducting the affairs of our front office, and she has been a real asset to our Program.

The Board

This particular staff has worked together for five years with Mr. Matula working as Executive Director under Planning and Survey for three years prior and Mr. McCullin acting as Chairman of the Board. They have participatd in the Renewal of Cameron and are proud of the accomplishments which the Community has made and of the opportunity you have given us to be a part of Cameron's rebirth.

Batting Power Downs Yoe

Four singles and one error was enough batting power to lead the Elgin Wildcats to a 3-0 win over the Cameron Yoemen in baseball action Tuesday night at Yoe Park.

The Yoemen were sporting an early lead in the north zone but the defeat by the Wildcats throws the race into a tie.

Gerry Heitman hurled the seven innings for the Yoemen. The left-hander gave up two runs in the opening innings to set the pace for the Wildcats. He gave up only one hit for the rest of the distance. Heitman struck out 9.

Arthur Behrend held the Yoe batters captive, tossing a near perfect game, giving up only one hit. The Yoe batting force was struck down from every direction finding little excuse for the loss.

The purple shirted Wildcats casted a night time invasion on the Yoemen's offensive ability and knotched the north-zone race at 2-1.

The Yoemen will return to north zone district play Tuesday, April 27 after taking an Easter break from the Friday night game.

Fem Track Stars Face Regional Test

What was termed to be "an exciting finish" in the mile relay in girls track last weekend will see the team running in the regional track meet April 23-24. The Yoe High girls participated in the district track meet in Austin last week and will take the mile relay team to regional.

Coach Linda Puckett said "The girls continue to improve. Our time this year would have won district last year and it seems all the girls in the district are improving."

Puckett's tracksters have shown more that moderate improvements throughout the year and now will see the first girls ever participating in a regional meet.

The mile relay team made up of Brenda Gooden, Kim Fritz, Diana Chubb, and Tullullah Green finished second in the event with a time of 4.19. The time showed an improvement of 20 seconds from their last meet.

Also placing for the Yoe fems were the 440 relay team finishing 5th with a 52.6 time. Only the first and second place teams are allowed to advance to regional. T. Green, Janet Angel, Mary Margaret Chandler, and B. Gooden make up the team.

The 880 relay also placed for the Yoe girls with a 1.48 time. T. Green, J. Angel, MaryBrown, and B. Gooden make up the relay team.

In the field events T. Green finished 6th in the high jump with a 4'8" leap.

Georgia Mae Wheeler placed 4th in the discus and 6th in the shot put.

No doubt there will be continued enthusiasm in the girls athletic program after the first year of full participation. The girls will be running in Brenham for a chance to advance to state competition in May.

OJT Boys Finish 2nd In Meet

In boys track at OJT, the 7th grade finished second in the district meet during the past weekend. The OJT tracksters finished the meet with an over all total of 88 points.

First place medals were won by the members of the mile relay team that broke the tape at 4:01.5 in undisputed first place. Members of the team include Tim Cheatem, Jasper Harden, Jeffry Gelner, and Rusty Crummer.

The sprint relay team finished third with a clocking of 50.3. James Mondrik, J. Harden, J. Gelner, and R. Crummer make up the team.

Crummer finished first in the 220 dash with a 24.5 time. Harden finished 2nd in the 440 yard dash with a 60.3 time.

Cheatem had a first place finish in the 880 yard run and broke the tape in 2:21.5 time. Harlan Short finished sixth in the event.

Alan Sapp ran the 1320 in 4:01.5 to win the event and pick up the blue ribbon. Thomas Dusek finished the 1320 in 4:08.0 to place third.

James Mondrik placed third in the 100 yard low hurdles with a 14.0 time.

The 8th grade division failed place anyone in their events.

Roy Knight is the coach of the 7th grade track team and James Petty is in charge of the 8th grade program and is in charge of the entire program for junior high track.

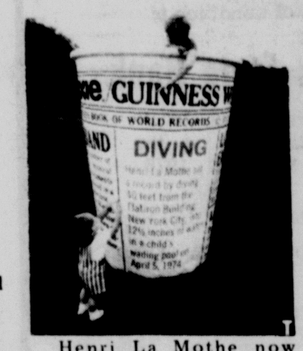
IT'S A RECORD



Henri La Mothe now has more than one record. He dived 40 feet from the Flatiron Building, New York, into 12 1/2 inches of water in a child's wading pool on April 5, 1974, to set a record. In addition, his feat appears on the world's largest paper cup—a six-foot-tall version of Dixie's Guinness World Record Cups.

Steel Shot In Offing For Ducks

Waterfowl biologists at the Texas Parks & Wildlife Department, and throughout the Central Flyway, will be paying close attention to the 1976 duck and goose season along the Atlantic Coast.

The U. S. Secretary of the Interior has announced the mandatory use of steel shot for waterfowl hunting in selected portions of the Atlantic Flyway for the coming season.

Hunters in the Mississippi Flyway must use steel or nonlead shot in 1977 and the Central--which includes Texas--and Pacific Flyways are scheduled for 1978, but only in lead shot "problem" areas.

Steel or nonlead shot will prevent poisoning of waterfowl which ingest spent lead pellets.

According to the Department of the Interior, "Areas where steel shot must be used will be identified jointly by the Fish and Wildlife Service and the state fish and game department. Primary attention will be focused on known problem areas."

Irby said it was premature to speculate on such problem areas in Texas which may require the use of steel shot although a two-year duck and goose gizzard analysis by P&WD waterfowl program leader C. D. Stutzenbaker shows some 30 percent of birds killed during public hunts in Jefferson County carried lead shot in their gizzards.

WHO GOES THERE?

The expression "on the qui vive" comes from the French sentry's challenge, Qui vive, "who goes there," and means being as alert as a sentinel.

"How do rising fuel prices affect my electric bill?"

Texas Power & Light generating plants require enormous quantities of natural gas, lignite coal and, when deliveries of gas are curtailed, fuel oil, to produce electricity.

In 1975, TP&L's fuel costs were $147 million, more than five and a half times greater than in 1970. In 1970, only 15 cents of each dollar paid to TP&L by its customers was used to purchase fuel. In 1975, fuel required 37 cents of each revenue dollar.

Unlike most businesses, TP&L cannot automatically raise the basic price of electricity as the costs of producing it go up. TP&L's rates are established and altered only by resolution or ordinance of city councils. For this reason, TP&L, and almost every electric company in the nation, has a fuel adjustment provision in its rates.

When TP&L's fuel costs exceed 70 cents per million BTU's (the equivalent of 1,000 cubic feet of natural gas), the adjustment provision permits us to pass on to our customers the additional cost. TP&L makes no profit on the fuel it purchases.

"What is TP&L doing to offset rising fuel prices?"

To offset the rising prices of natural gas and fuel oil, TP&L and two other electric companies are constructing large generating units which use relatively low cost lignite coal as fuel. Two such units have been in operation since 1972, a third unit was placed in service in 1974 and a fourth in 1975. Five other lignite-fueled units are now under construction and still more are being planned.

For almost sixty-four years, Texas Power & Light has supplied dependable electric service at a fair price. We're working to keep it that way.

AVIATION

C.L. "Jack" Jones

Sunrise this Sunday, April 18 marks the 34th anniversary of the Doolittle Raid on the Empire of the Rising Sun. That 'Spring of '42' was a dismal spring for us Americans--from December 1941 onward there had been nothing but victories in the Pacific for the Japanese. I might add that the same aura of invincibility was ascribed to the German military.

Those of us who were already serving as U. S. fighter pilots in the Pacific at that time opined that the Japs would probably reach Australia, but only after grinding us down first. That we were expendable was never doubted.

To strike back at Japan was all but an obsession in high governmental circles as well as among our citizenry in the weeks and months following the Pearl Harbor attack. President Roosevelt himself rarely missed an opportunity to bring it up during sessions with his chiefs of staff.

So it was that the unique Doolittle Raid on Toyko and other Japanese cities April 18, 1942 was an immortal feat.

The concept for sending bombers off an aircraft carrier against Japan was that of Captain Francis Low, U. S. Navy. Naval Captain Donald Duncan, also on Admiral King's staff, proved on paper that the feat was possible and suggested utilizing the B-25 Mitchell bomber mated with the newly commissioned carrier USS Hornet as the launching platform.

The reality and necessary heart for "the bold undertaking" was provided by Lt. Col. James H. Doolittle and his brave band of 80 airmen along with their 16 B-25 medium bombers.

Some of that necessary heart muscle came from Texans in the likes of Lt. Robert M. Gray, Killeen; W. N. Fitzhugh, Temple; Ross Wilder Taylor; and Dean Hallmark, Dallas. There were at least nine more Texans on the mission.

As was apparent in last week's column, Lt. Bob Gray of Killeen was one of the best of Doolittle's pilots as well as being one of the spunkiest.

During their initial training in short-field carrier style take-offs at Elgin Field, Fla. (the secret training base for Doolittle's "First Special Aviation Project"), their naval training advisor, Lt. Hank Miller, recalled years later that "all pilots with the exception of a few conservatives caught on quickly. Doolittle, Gray, and Jones were particularly outstanding." Gray and his crew in plane No. 40-2270, "Whiskey Pete," was the third plane to leap off the pitching deck of the Hornet that stormy morning of the 18th bound for targets on the east side of Toyko. Five hours later and some 12 minutes behind Doolittle, they dropped their bombs from 900 feet into their assigned industrial type targets.

Before reaching the target Bob Gray took a vote among the crew, that if they were badly damaged on the way to the target, what would each man want to do. All the crew voted to bail out with the excpetion of Gray. As co-pilot Manch related, "Bob said that if he had the chance, he would let us out, then he was going to pick out the biggest building in Toyko and stick "Whiskey Pete' right in the middle of it." Although anti-aircraft fire was moderate and they were intercepted by fighters, Gray managed to elude both and set sail for the China coast.

Close to 10 o'clock that night, while flying in a thin overcast and with all fuel tanks registering empty, Gray turned old "Whiskey Pete" due south and, with the hope that they were far enough inland of friendly China, ordered the crew to bail out. All of the crew survived the bail-out except Corporal Faktor, the engineer-gunner.

Gray's 6'7" co-pilot, Jack "Shorty" Manch, bailed out after loading himself with an axe, a Bowie knife, two .45 automatics, a luger, a .22 automatic, a .44-.40 Winchester, a box of Robert Burns cigars, and a bunch of Baby Ruths. The opening shock of his chute, to quote Manch, "jerked my axe, knife, canteen, and all my guns away, excpet the one in my holster. The box of cigars disappeared out of my A-2 jacket and the Baby Ruths were shucked, leaving nothing but the wrappers."

Three days later the four daredevils were rejoined near Chuchow through the efforts of Chinese guerrillas.

Dear reader, to do justice to these 80 heroes, I could write two full columns on each one individually, to say nothing of the sacrifice of the Chinese people who rescued and befriended these airmen at great peril to themselves. One of my research books estimates that up to 250,000 Chinese civilians and soldiers were consumed in the savage reaction to the raid by the Japanese military.

Lt. Hallmark of Texas, Lt. Farrow of S. Carolina, and Sgt. Spatz of Kansas were executed by firing squad at Shanghai on Oct. 15, 1942. Three days later, on Oct. 18, and six months to the day after the Doolittle Raid, Bob Gray rode his newly designated "Whiskey Pete" into a mountain near Assam, India, during a combat mission over the "hump." He was sorely missed by his friends in the service and in his hometown, Killeen.

I am deeply indebted to Bo Gray's mother for personal information and publications. Mrs. Marvin Gray will be 85 this May 7. Sitting with the petite silver-haired widow in the quiet dignity of her home amongst her son's citations and decorations, I couldn't help but see her as the epitome of "Gold Star" Mothers.

As we reminisced, the peacefulness of our visit was periodically invaded by the abrupt rumbling of the heavy guns firing at nearby Fort Hood.

Mrs. Marvin Gray of Killeen, Lt. Bob Gray's "Gold Star Mother."
